To Whom It May Concern:

This documents my opinion and recommendations regarding Mr. Clark Clowar of Reno Construction, Inc. and his abilities as a construction superintendent.

From the period of April 2010 to November 2011, and again from May 2012 to July 2012, Mr. Clowar worked zealously to manage the construction of the new Camp Pendleton Martial Arts Facility (Dojo) at Edson Range. His efforts and direct supervision of the construction resulted in one of the most modern and inspiring dojo's for the entire Marine Corps.

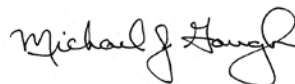

This facility will be used for many future generations in support the Marine Corps mission to train recruits prior to them becoming Marines. These Marines then deploy around the world guaranteeing our and many other countries freedoms.

Mr. Clowar's professionalism and eagerness to ensure the project was performed to the highest quality standards was excellent throughout these periods of time. There was also a very diligent effort provided in ensuring a safe working environment for all those who worked on or visited his sites. There were no lost time accidents during his tenure.

Mr. Clowar managed over 35 trades to construct and provide this much needed dojo to the Marine Corps. His ability to understand and direct the construction of this exceptional facility is a testament to his consummate professionalism and supervision capabilities.

I unreservedly give Mr. Clowar my highest recommendation for future projects supporting the Government or within the construction industry. Any inquiries can be addressed to me at my home address above or through my email at mike.gough@cox.net.
